

Check your application

No login, no account — where your application is up to, on one page, any time.

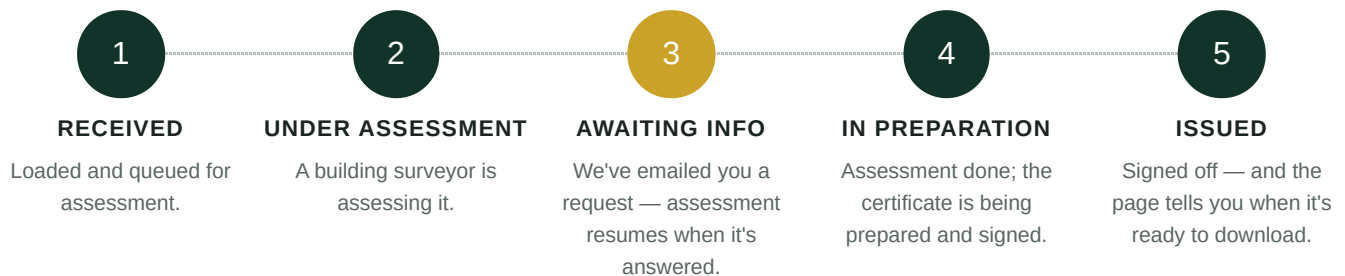

DRAFT — not for release. The status page isn't live yet: replace [STATUS PAGE ADDRESS] with the real address and delete this box first.

The client portal is for lodging, replying and downloading — and it needs a login. The status page is different: anyone with the paperwork can look up where an application is at. Handy for the owner, the crew on site, or a shire on the phone.

HOW IT WORKS

- 1 Go to [STATUS PAGE ADDRESS]
 Works on any phone or computer. Nothing to install, nothing to sign into.
- 2 Enter the reference number and the site address
 Both are on your CFBA acknowledgment email or paperwork — e.g. reference 12345 and 12 Example Street, Wanneroo. Spaces and dashes in the reference don't matter, and the postcode is optional.
- 3 Read the timeline
 The stage the job is at, what it means, when we received it and when it last moved.

THE FIVE STAGES

"Issued" and "in your hands" are two different moments — signing happens before delivery, so the final stage says honestly where it's got to: being prepared, ready to download, or downloaded. A hold-up getting it to you? The page says that too, and our office is already onto it.

EXAMPLE

Reference 12345 + 12 Example Street, Wanneroo → "Awaiting further information — we need something extra before assessment can continue. Check your email for our request. Received 22 Jun · Last activity 9 Jul." One glance, and the next move is obvious: answer the request.

PRIVACY, BRIEFLY

A job shows only when the reference and the site address both match — so nobody can browse other people's applications. It shows the stage, address and dates; never names, invoices or documents, which live in the client portal behind your login.
